The Grand Palazzo (Home) of Baron Rezzonico, a wealthy 17th century Venetian Baron still stands on the Grand Canal of Venice today. In approximately 1648, Baron Rezzonico purchased the Palazzo pictured from a wealthy Venetian native who could not complete its renovation. In completing the Home, Baron Rezzonico then commissioned a style of Chandelier for to adorn the family Palazzo which now has borne his name for over 400 years. The Palazzo is now a Grand Museum of Venetian Art which include the original Chandeliers that still adorn each room of this Grand Palazzo.
